Special Effert to Be Made to Get Republicas Voters Registered.

SO FAR REGISTRATION IS VERY LIGHT

Republican Campaign Closes with Rally at Woodman Hall Tonight, When Senator Millard and Most of Candidates Will Appear.

This is the last day of registration and to each precinct. the managers of the local republican campaign made preparations yesterday to get out all of the voters possible. On the first day of registration 1,258 voters were booked at the booths. On the second day only 1,182 showed up, so that up to date only 2,440 voters of all parties have been registered. Some of the campaigners do not expect that the total registration will run 3,500, but an effort will be made to get out every one. The registration booths will be open today from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. It is stated that the lack of interest campaign accounts in a measure for the light registration. So far the democrats are ahead, but the republicans hope to make up at least a portion of the de-

Tonight there will be a big republican rally at Woodman hall, Twenty-fifth and N streets. This meeting will be held under the auspices of the Swedish-American Republican league. The other republican clubs have been invited to attend and RESTRAINS SEWER BUILDING Senator Millard will possibly be one of the speakers. All of the candidates who can possibly get here have promised to show themselves and make brief addresses. This rally will practically close the campaign, for no meetings, except ward railies,

Seeking Information,

The Municipal Journal and Engineer, published in New York, has sent to City En-Beal a request for certain data concerning South Omaha. In reply to the questions asked, Mr. Beal says that the area of the city is six and one-half square miles. The total mileage of streets is 105. There are six miles of paved streets and thirty-two miles of graded streets. Further, the city has 11,111 square yards of macadamized pavement and 41,203 square yards of asphalt pavement. In brick pavement there are 24,743 square yards, and 80,928 square yards of Colorado sandstone

It is understood that this statement of the city engineer is to be printed shortly ook now being compiled. Only 159 of the largest cities in the country will be included in the data now being compiled

State Veterinarian Protests. Dr. Don C. Ayer, chief of the bureau of animal industry in this city, received yesterday the following letter from Dr. W. A. Thomas, state veterinarian:

Thomas, state veterinarian:

I am informed that cattle affected with bigjaw or actinomycrosis are repeatedly being soid and removed from the stock yards and privately slaughtered so as to avoid inspection. Hereafter all animals so diseased going into the Union stock yards at South Omaha are therein quarantined, and under no circumstances will an animal so diseased be permitted to be removed from said stock yards except for immediate slaughter in an abattoir where inspection is canducted by your department. I request you to read chapter vi, section 6, of the session laws of 1901.

Operations Continue Active.

At the Hammond plant between 400 and 500 men are now daily employed. The cattie and sheep departments are running almost full time, but the hog department has not yet been started up. No effort has been made so far by the Hammond people to break into the local market, as all of the cattle slaughtered here are being sent east as soon as chilled. It is thought, however, that there will be something doing in this line before long. On account of the north crossing having been torn up by the Union Pacific, the hauling for this plant is being handled at the south end of the plant. C. W. Olcott has been installed here as purchasing agent.

Light Company Active.

At the present time 130 electric lights are maintained in South Omaha. This num-Ber includes the lights used at the Union Stock yards by the railroads and the city. Twice each night an inspector in the em-ploy of the light company makes an inspection of the lights and the trips, owing to the amount of ground to be covered, takes up all of his time. In addition to this inspection, the police report any lights

Order to Stop North Side Sewer Project.

John I. Redick has secured a temporary restraining order from Judge Dickinson preventing the city of Omaha from constructing a sewer in North Omaha to provide sewer facilities for the territory bounded by Twentieth, Twenty-fourth and Sprague streets and Ames avenue, Mr. Redick owns more than 100 lots which would be assessed for the improvement and he maintains that the sewer is entirely unnecessary and that the condition of that section of the city is not such that it justifles the construction of sewers. He alleges that his property would be taxed $7,000 or $8,000 for the sewer and maintains that such a tax would be unreasonable and unjust. A motion for a temporary injunction will be heard by Judge Dickinson on

SWEDISH - AMERICANS

W. R. Homan Tells Them School Board Candidates Are Free and Unpledged. Several hundred republicans attended the mass meeting of Swedish-Americans held last night at Creighton hall. E. M. Stenberg presided and the following well known republicans were seated on the stage: Judge W. W. Slabaugh, Senator J. H. Van Dusen. E. J. Bodwell, Judge D. M. Vinsonhaler, E. F. Brailey, Thomas Crocker, George McBride, John W. Battin, P. A. Edquist, W. J. Hunter, Charles Unitt and W. R.

James H. Van Dusen of South Omaha was the first speaker of the evening, and then E. J. Cornish spoke briefly on the great national issues for which the republican party stands and called the attention of the audience to the fact that the republican party has never advocated a measure which was not for the good of the working classes.

W. R. Homan, candidate for member of the Board of Education, assured the meeting that there is no truth in the reports which have been circulated to the effect that the republican nominees are pledged to anything not in their platform. "The republican candidates for the school board have made no promises and are under obligations," said Mr. Homan. have a statement signed all five of the candidates, in which they declare that they have made no promises and will be entirely free to act as they think best, in case they are elected. An attempt has been made to secure the votes of the women of the city for the democratic ticket, but this plan will not succeed. Republicans will not be deceived by any such sharp practice on the part of a few democratic politicians."

Brief addresses were made by Judge D. well, Thomas Crocker, J. W. Battin, P. A. Edquist, W. J. Hunter, Charles Unitt and other candidates who attended the meeting.

LETOVSKY GIVES HIS REASONS

Dissatisfied with the Treatment Accorded Him While in Sheriff Power's Office.

OMAHA, Nov. 1 .- To the Editor of The Bee: I think the public should know my reasons for resigning my position as deputy sheriff of Douglas county. My position in the office of Mr. Power, while a deputy, was to be that of bookkeeper and cashier I was under a bond to the county for $10,000, the same as his head deputy, Mr. Weber; the arrangement also being that when Mr. Weber was away I was to have charge of the office, yet in spite of this arrangement when Mr. Weber was away on his vacation the office was turned over to Mr. Cunningham, another deputy and a brother-in-law of County Commissioner Connolly, and I was ignored. I was not permitted to handle the money of the office, as had been agreed I should do, except, of course, what I went out and collected and brought into the office, and even then Mr. Weber could not wait until I could count the money I had collected and make my report, but would take same off my desk times spoke to Sheriff Power about these the days of "The Mikado" and one can matters and he always promised to right hardly help after the first act humming. the wrongs heaped upon me, but so far as that popular old piece, "Make the Punish-I know he never attempted to do anything ment Fit the Crime." This air DeKoven in the matter. Sheriff Power simply tried to use me as a collector and at times compelled me to feed prisoners at the jail, as cashier. No complaint was ever made to me that my work was unsatisfactory and why I should have been treated in the manner I was, is a mystery to me. When the county commissioner districts were changed I was mentioned as a possible candidate from the Second district, but when Sheriff Power heard of it he called me into his private office and said that I could not run this time: that I should go to the newspapers and make a statement that I would not run, but that I was for Connolly. I have heard that Sheriff Power thought I did not hustle hard enough for his re-election to please him. One of his deputies remarked: "If that Bohemian up in the sheriff's office don't do some mighty twenty miles west of this city. He was hard hustling for the re-election of Sherif born in Ireland, went to sea at 9 and served Power, his head will come off immediately in Nelson's fleet as powder monkey at the lafter election." During almost the entire time I was in the sheriff's office I was treated as though I was not good enough notice. I stood this treatment just as long as I could, and when it became apparent to me that Sheriff Power was in sympathy with the rest of the office in their treatment of me, I concluded it was about time for me to get out, hence my resignation.

STANLEY B. LETOVSKY. FIFTH WARDERS HEAR SPEECHES.

Judge Irving 1. Baxter Delivers the Principal Address.

A large crowd attended the meeting of he Fifth Ward Republican club at Sixteenth and Corby streets last night. Many speeches were made and all spoke confitently of republican success in the coming election. Among the candidates who responded to invitations to address the club were E. F. Brailey, Charles Unitt, James S. Bruner, W. B. Christie and G. F. Davie. After the candidates, Hugh Myers was called upon to explain the new ballot law. Mr. Myers was followed by Judge I. F. Baxter, who spoke on national and county affairs. Judge Baxter said: "In every republican state there are laws relating o trusts and the only national legislation that has been done against the trust evil has been done by the republican party. The republican party is the only one that has the ability to deal with such an im-portant question." He then discussed

"As he appeared before the large, disinguished and enthusiastic audience it was eminent sleuthhound was somewhat embarassed. However, recovering himself quickly and leaning gracefully against the curtain for support, he consoled himself with the thought that he was undoubtedly among friends. The master mind then proceeded on behalf of his neither humble nor inferior associates to thank the ladies and gentlemen for their kind expression of approval. So saying, a bland smile revealed the roguish and coquettish dimples of F.

Quiller. The above, a curtain speech made by Jerome Sykes between the acts of DeKoven Smith's new comic opera success, Friday night, is a sample of the many absurd third person speeches made throughout the performance by the bombastic, blundering detective, Foxy Quiller, who sails through the entire opera without arriving at a single correct solution of any of the many Ordinarily, Mr. Sykes is undoubtedly the whole show, but in Omaha it is different and last night the interest centered chiefly in the promising Omaha woman, Grace from Sloux City, Ia., yesterday by the Cameron, who has won for herself a place Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. as a prima donna of repute in the musical Six cars comprised the train and fast time world in the short space of three years. Miss Cameron is the same graceful woman who scored such a triumph in "The Serenade" here two seasons ago. Her voice shows marked improvement, such as could be expected to be gained with time and experience. Her part, while hardly as great as she deserves, still gives her several good opportunities. It cannot be compared to the one she had in "The Serenade."

In the first act she has a duet, "Winding, Winding," with Paganino, that is one of the gems of the opera. In the second cat she has another duet, "Love in the Golden Age," with Paganino, which, while not so popular with the audience, gives perhaps better opportunity for displaying the beauties of her voice. Her marvelous upper register is better in quality than ever and somewhat stronger.

The audience was quite the largest of the season, there being practically no available space in the theater left untaken, and all gave expression of their approval of Miss Cameron's work and their regard for her by such hearty applause after each of her numbers as is seldom heard in an Omaha theater. The opera itself, although not the sequel of "The Highwayman," a light opera success of a few years ago, has as its central figure the same character, that of Foxy Quiller, which Mr. Sykes made so famous in that piece. The associates and scenes are entirely new and the music, although decidedly reminiscent at times of other light operas, is on a whole of a higher order than that popular old piece, "Make the Punishment Fit the Crime." This air DeKoven has almost revived outright. The opening solo and chorus of the first act, "That's the Way the Ship is Made." suggests the armorers' song in "Robin Hood," and while when I was hired to keep books and to act armorers' song in "Robin Hood," and while it is reminiscent, Mr. DeKoven can hardly be accused of plagiarism, since he has "borrowed" from one of his own works. But DeKoven's music is always tuneful and never fails to charm the ear. In "Foxy

Quiller" he has abandoned the tireson two-step movement, although the opercontains a thrilling march, but he has made he waltz rythm dominant. Mr. Smith has written a particularly funny book, which is somewhat satirical, the detective being the personage who suffers at the humorist's hands this time. The production is gorgeously staged. The first act is set in a marine scene, the arrival of a ship and its company in port. The second act is Corsician, while the third is military and decidedly the handsomest of the piece.

Such a company of players has not been seen together at one time in this city since Alice Nielsen came with "The Fortune Teller" and its all-star cast two years ago. Almost all of the principals save Mis-

Cameron and Harry McDonough are strangers to Omaha theater-goers. Their popularity now, however, is secure, since all proved their ability. Mr. Sykes' characterization of Quiller is one that commends him as a comedian of ability. He is not a buffoon and never resorts to horseplay to produce a laugh, his work being all straight comedy. He has a good voice, sings well, enunciates almost perfectly and wins favor with his audience at once. He has several topical songs in the piece that plain even to the casual observer that the the audience did not seem to be able to get enough of, forcing him to respond to rehough much smaller, reminds one of Charles Klein, the favorite miniature comedian who supported the elongated DeWolf Hopper so many years. Zink is bilariously funny and artistic about it all. Eleanor Kent, a stranger here, is a California girl, and possesses a soprano voice of splendid quality. For her solo number, 'Today," she received several encores. Arthur Earnest and Julius Steger have good voices which are used to advantage. Harry McDonough, familiar to local heater-goers through his former associaion with Jeff DeAngelis, assists Sykes and Zink with the comedy end of the performance commendably.

The engagement closes with a matine this afternoon and a performance tonight.

"Foxy" Comes on a Special. "The Foxy Quiller" Opera company was whirled into Omaha on a special was made. The troupe arrived here at 12:30 noon and the members expressed them selves as highly pleased with the excellent railway service afforded them.
